MYSTERY SOLVED BY CONFESSION OF CATHOLIC PRIEST

Rev. Hans Schmidt Admits Murder of Anna Aumuller.

Crime Laid at Door of Young Curate by Tracing Pillow Slip in Which Upper Section of Dismembered Torso Was Found-Slayer Locked in Tombs Cell.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, September 14 .-Rev. Hans Schmidt, curate of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, in West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, to-day confessed the murder of Anna Aumuller, parts of whose dismembered body were found in the Hudson River, and are now in the Hoboken morgue.

"I killed her because I loved her so much. She was so beautiful, so good, I could not let her weeks ago she had been employed as a servant in the parish house of St. Boniface's Roman Catholic Church, at Forty-seventh Street and Second Avenue. It was there that she met the man who now faces the electric chair as the penalty for her brutal murder. #### "IN THE INTEREST OF SAFETY"

New Haven Promulgates Rules Governing Promotion of Employes.

New Haven, Conn., September 14.—
"In the interest of safety," new rules governing the promotion of firemen to engineers and of engineers to advanced grades of service and for the "discipline of both" to-day were promulgated by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroads, effective at once.

In a statement to the engineers, issued to-night, General Manager Bardo said:

"These rules are designed and sub-mitted after a convincing demonstra-tion that our existing rules do not meet the exacting demands of the service and to comply with the recommenda-tions of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Public Utilities Com-mission of Connecticut, and are for the sole purpose of safety in our service and the protection of our patrons and and the protection of our patrons and employes."

One of the principal rules changed is that relating to the experience of engineers. In future engineers will have to have at least one year's experience before being placed on passenger locomotives and two year's experience before being allowed on fast trains.

to the verge of disruption, and after refusing to hear him in his own defense, the congregation of Third Christian Church yesterday morning declared its action of September 7, in voting membership to Rev. David R. Francis, former pastor of the church, as irregular, and rejected his application for membership by a vote of 79 to 21. A rising vote of the congregation was taken by Elder James N. Baldwin, who presided at the meeting, and it seemed that nearly every one in the building voted one way or the other. During most of the debate, which was both lively and acrimonious and filled with charges that the church had been packed by Dr. Francis's enemies, the former pastor, pale and calm, sat in a pew on the left and near to the rear. There was but one other person in that pew.

Refused to Let Him Speak.

The former pastor listened dispassionately to the wordy battle which waged around him, and maintained a level gaze on those who favored him with their arguments and on those who assalled him with invectives. He sprang to his feet, however, when Elder O. B. Slaughter stated that he could not understand why the minister should have prayed for forgiveness for the kias which led to his trouble if that kiss had been given only in sympathy with a woman's sorrow.
